

Joe Gibbs Racing Oil Goes Straight

---

Finally racing oil worth recommending!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

After 18 months of in-house and track testing we are pleased to announce that the Joe Gibbs line of racing oils has exceeded all of our demands in racing oil. We began our testing of the Joe Gibbs oils in the dyno room with all of our new engines, along with those being freshened. We perform a leakdown test on every engine we build immediately after the dyno session and we were astounded to discover that the leakdown reading dropped by almost 50% after using the Joe Gibbs Break-In Oil (BR) in all of the engines tested. This finding was also backed up by the blow by meter on the dyno showing comparable readings. Everyone knows that with a decrease in leak down and blow by comes extra horsepower and engine life.

The added bonus of using the BR formula oil was the extra protection on start up for the lifters, wrist pins, cylinder walls, etc. This comes from the Gibbs formula having the proper amount of zinc, moly, and detergent to protect the moving parts during the critical break in period. Sealing the engine the first few minutes of run time is the only way to insure a good ring seal for the life of the engine.

Our testing continued on the track to back up our finding in the shop, you have to run the product in a racing environment to get the whole story. After a year of on-track testing, we found the Joe Gibbs oils added life to the lifters and bearings, along with holding a better ring seal than any other oil we have ever run. We found this oil to be especially necessary in our 2000hp plus nitrous engines to insure continued ring seal. As everyone running a nitrous engine knows, lose ring seal and you have lost an engine.

Here at Sunset Racecraft, we start our engines off the right way by breaking them in on Joe Gibbs BR formula oil to insure the customer gets the best product we can provide with a long living, race winning life. Rest assured you will find it at the track in every car we own. We highly recommend that all of our customers run their Sunset Racecraft engines with Joe Gibbs oil to protect their investment and insure rock solid engine performance and long engine life.

Joe Gibbs has developed great mineral based and synthetic based oils for all racing engines, not just those that run in circles. Joe Gibbs racing oil has indeed gone straight.

Please click on the Joe Gibbs racing oil link to find much more about this fine product.

Tracy Dennis
Owner of Sunset Racecraft Racing Engines